COURSE TITLE: Approaches to Literature: Exploring Gender, Race/Ethnicity and Class Representations
Instructor: Dr. Katherine Zelinsky

Office: SS 1122
Phone: 403-220-6741
E-mail: zelinsky@ucalgary.ca
Office hours: T/R: 9:50-10:50

Course description: This section of “Approaches to Literature” will explore the importance of race, class and/or gender issues and representations in selected literary works. We will examine how writers address race, class and gender as central themes in the construction of the text, as social and cultural constructions, and as commentaries on social and cultural realities. There is no pre-requisite for this course.

Texts and readings:

Henrik Ibsen, A Doll’s House
William Shakespeare, Othello
University of Calgary Course Pack of Readings (compiled by Katherine Zelinsky)
(The course pack contains a selection of short stories by such writers as Katherine Mansfield, Alice Munro, and Sherman Alexie; poems by such writers as William Blake, Adrienne Rich, and Li-Young Lee; a theoretical essay (on D2L) by Patricia Collins; and literary essays by Virginia Woolf and Margaret Atwood.

Assignments and Evaluation:

Analytical/Close Reading Essay (20%), Due Oct. 6
Analytical/Close Reading+ Research Essay (20%), Due Nov. 17
Multiple Choice Quiz (15%), Oct. 20
Group Presentation (20%), to be scheduled from Nov. 24-Dec. 3
Registrar-Scheduled Final Exam, Open Book (25%)

Descriptions of Assignments

Analytical/Close Reading essay: For this essay, you will be required to provide a close, detailed and persuasive reading of some aspect of one of the course texts, connected to gender, race/ethnicity and/or class. I will provide you with a selection of essay topics for the essay. The required length for the paper is 1200 words. The paper must have a title, be double-spaced and stapled. You will be required to use the MLA format for quotations from the work that you analyze. You will also be required to provide a Works Cited page in MLA format. You will be assessed for your ability to read closely and carefully, to organize your ideas around a central argument/thesis, and to argue your position convincingly. Your paper will also be assessed for grammar, sentence structure, word choice, paragraphing, and overall organization of ideas. You are asked NOT to consult secondary sources for this essay assignment.
Analytical/Close Reading+ Research essay: This assignment requires you to provide a close, detailed and persuasive analysis of some aspect of one of the course texts connected to gender, race/ethnicity and/or class (the text may or may not have already been discussed in class). I will provide you with a selection of essay topics from which you will choose one. The required length is 1350-1450 words. The paper must have a title, be double-spaced and stapled. You will be required to use the MLA format for quotations from the work that you choose as well as from the critic’s article. You will also be required to provide a Works Cited page in MLA format. You will be assessed on your ability to read closely and carefully, to organize your ideas around a central argument/thesis, and to argue your position convincingly. In addition to providing a close reading, you will be required to incorporate one critic’s analysis of your chosen text. You will be asked to provide a brief summary of the critic’s response and go on to point out how your reading/analysis distinguishes your position from the critic’s. The critical article must be from a peer-reviewed academic journal, an article in a collection of essays, or a chapter from a book. Your paper will also be assessed for grammar, sentence structure, word choice, paragraphing and overall organization of ideas.

Group Presentation: For this project you will be asked to choose one text from the course readings and focus on a minor detail such as an image or image pattern, a line or two from the text, a brief scene or minor character that connects to class, race or gender. You might, for example, argue that a minor character’s action or an image in a poem or work of fiction demonstrates a key aspect of the text’s representation of social class. Students’ choice of textual detail must be approved by me; that means that each group must consult with me when you are preparing your group project. You must have a clear, specific, focused argument based on a close analysis of textual details. You may use visual materials such as powerpoint, but make sure that they support and highlight your central argument. The presentation must be 7-8 minutes in length (no longer). There will likely be 3 students per group. This is not a research project, so DO NOT consult secondary sources. Students in each group will be assigned a common grade. However, to ensure that the presentation grade reflects the equal efforts of all members, I will consult with each group periodically.

The quiz will comprise multiple choice questions based on the readings covered in class up to that point.

Registrar-Scheduled Final Examination: This will be an open book exam. You will be allowed to use your course readings. No notes allowed. Details of this exam will be discussed in class. The University of Calgary Calendar states that students must be available for examinations up to the last day of the examination period, Dec. 11-22.

N.B. All assignments must be completed in order to qualify for a passing grade.

Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A- to B+) for each business day [not class] that the assignment is overdue.

Please submit your assignments directly to the instructor in class on the dates due. If it is not possible to do so, take your assignment to SS 1152 and put it in the dropbox. Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office.
Grading system:

The following grading system will be used in this course. I will assign both a percentage and a letter grade for each assignment. There is no D-grade.

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Internet and electronic communication device information

Please turn off cell phones! Laptops are allowed in class as long as they are being used to take notes or to assist you in the planning of class presentations. Students who use their laptops for other purposes, especially if such activities distract other students, will be asked to remove them from the classroom. It is also important that the classroom be a safe place in which students and instructor can engage in respectful discussion, exchange and debate. Please familiarize yourself with the University’s policy on classroom etiquette and academic misconduct.

Additional Information

Please exercise decorum, discretion and judgment if you email me. That means using correct grammar and appropriate salutations (for example, Dear Professor Zelinsky or Dear Katherine). Although I expect that you will ask most of your questions in class (and I will answer them there or on D2L), you may feel the need to email me occasionally. I will do my best to respond within 48 hours. I will not, however, respond to emails after 6:00 p.m. or on weekends.

Plagiarism:
Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:
   (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
   (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
   (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
   (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar, [http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/j.html] “The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, …, to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community”. The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a “positive and productive learning and working environment.” This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate
