COURSE TITLE: Cyberpunks and the Network Self

MWF 11:00 – 11:50, SS 109

Instructor: Tom Sewel

Office: SS 1031

Phone: --

E-mail: tom.sewel@ucalgary.ca

Office hours: Wednesdays, 1-2pm

Homepage/course website: n/a

Course description:

This course will explore a small selection of cyberpunk texts, focusing on the unanticipated social and political implications of a genre that often presents itself as radical. The course will look at how these books deal with representations of artificial intelligence, constructions of heroism, the role of nostalgia, questions of authenticity, the potential for liberation, and the function of language itself as it prompts students to question what it might mean to be human in a networked world.

The course's primary aim is to cultivate strong critical writing skills, with particular attention given to economy and clarity of written communication. To this end, students will read several key genre works and formulate original critical arguments about them in essay form. Students will also be asked to engage with brief excerpts from relevant theoretical texts and provide short critical summaries of the arguments they propose.

Written assignments early in the term will be slightly longer than typical for the time of year but the required length of written assignments will become progressively shorter as the term continues, encouraging students to develop a parsimonious writing style that centers the critical argument.

Pre-requisites: Undergraduate, non-English major

Texts and readings:

Theory excerpts:

“A Cyborg Manifesto,” Donna Haraway (1984, book chapter, available online)

“Where are the Missing Masses?” Bruno Latour (1992, book chapter, available online)

Fiction:

Neuromancer, William Gibson (1984 novel), Ace.

Snow Crash, Neal Stephenson (1992 novel), Bantam.

Accelerando, Charles Stross (2005 novel), Ace.

Doktor Sleepless: Engines of Desire, Warren Ellis and Ivan Rodriguez (2007 Graphic Novel), Avatar.

Ready Player One, Ernest Cline (2011 novel), Random House.

Assignments and Evaluation:

Class Essays will be focused on helping students hone their written communication skills. Each one will ask students to present an original critical analysis of one of the novels studied in class, using evidence from the text to support their argument.

The Critical Summary will ask students to read, think through, and then present in condensed form the argument made by a specific critical text.

5% Thesis statement assignment.

15% First Class Essay, 1200 – 1400 words.

15% Second Class Essay, 600 – 800 words.

15% Critical Summary, 400 – 500 words.

5% Participation – involvement in class discussions.

10% In-Class Exercises – quizzes, creative response exercises, groupwork exercises.

There will be six of these I.C.E.s, worth 2% each, and the lowest scoring will be dropped. In-Class Exercises will be spread across the semester and will not be announced in advance.

35% Registrar-scheduled Final Exam (Closed Book).

The final exam will have two sections. The first section will present students with critical terminology used during the course and ask them to explain those terms in a short written answer.

The second section will ask students to choose from a small selection of prompts to write a short essay that constructs a critical argument connecting two of the texts studied in the class.

Exam will be scheduled according to Registrar, within the period allocated for Winter 2018 examinations, April 16 to April 26, 2018. Students must be available for examinations up to the last day of the examination period (Apr 16-26).

Students must complete all written assignments (with the exception of in-class exercises) in order to receive a passing grade in this course.

Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A- to B+) for each business day [not class] that the assignment is overdue. No assignments will be accepted one week past the assignment deadline without the prior consent of the instructor.

To facilitate participation, students should complete the assigned readings before class and bring the relevant texts to seminar. Annotating books and making reading notes are excellent ways to prepare, but certainly not mandatory

Please make every effort to take assignments directly to the instructor. If it is not possible to do so, take your assignment to SS 1152 and put it in the dropbox. Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office.

Grading system:

90 + %	A+	4.0
85 – 89 %	A	4.0
80 – 84 %	A–	3.7
77 – 79 %	B+	3.3
74 – 76 %	B	3.0
70 – 73 %	B–	2.7
67 – 69 %	C+	2.3
64 – 66 %	C	2.0
60 – 63 %	C–	1.7
55 – 59 %	D+	1.3
50 – 54 %	D	1.0
0 – 49 %	F	0

The University of Calgary’s four-point Grading System, as described in the Calendar; (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-2.html>) will be used in this course.

A+/A (4.0); A- (3.7); B+ (3.3); B (3.0); B- (2.7); C+ (2.3); C (2.0); C- (1.7); D+ (1.3); D (1.0); F (0)

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:

- (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
- (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
- (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
- (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:
