Course Description

How does literature depict physical and cognitive illness and disability? How do the narratives we tell and the types of language we use to describe illness affect our experiences of it? In this course, we will study works of literature that explore current issues in medicine, disability studies, and bioethics. We will tackle topics ranging from organ donation to autism. Authors and theorists may include Vincent Lam, Mark Haddon, Kazuo Ishiguro, and Margaret Edson.

Texts and Readings

- ❖ Edson, Margaret. Wit.
- ❖ Erdrich, Louise. Selected Poems (on D2L)
- ❖ Haddon, Mark. The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-time.
- ❖ Ishiguro, Kazuo. Never Let me Go.
- ❖ Lam, Vincent. Bloodletting and other Miraculous Cures.
- ❖ Sedaris, David “The Incomplete Quad” (on D2L)

N.B. Additional readings will be available on our course website.

Assignments and Evaluation

Team-Based Learning 15%

Readiness-assessment tests (reading quizzes) 10%; group participation 5%

A major goal of this class is to foster critical thinking and discussion skills within a collaborative environment. In order to do so, we will be working in teams, assigned by the professor in the second week of class, in order to analyze the assigned texts. Students will complete scheduled readiness assessment tests (RATs), and use these as a launching pad for discussion within their team, and then within the class as a whole. The group participation mark (5%) will come from an evaluation prepared by team members. At the end of class, teams will evaluate each member using a rubric that accounts for attendance, preparedness, and participation in team discussions and peer review. I will also take into account a self-evaluation based on the same rubric.

Quizzes will be scheduled in advance. There are no make-up quizzes in this course. Instead, I will drop the lowest quiz.

Close Reading 30%

Perhaps the most important skill in literary studies is close reading. A close reading shows the relationship between the form and content of a work of literature. Students will write an 800 to 900 word close reading on one of Vincent Lam's short stories.

Research Paper 35%

Your final research paper of 1,200 words will respond to two critics to develop an argument about one of the texts we read as class. We will be working on the papers together over the course of the semester to develop an annotated bibliography, peer reviewed draft, and final paper.

Final Exam 20%

This class includes a registrar scheduled final exam. Students must be available for examinations up to the last day of the examination period, Dec 9 – 19, 2019.

Late and Missed Assignments

Every student has two days of grace that can be used for any component of the close reading or final research paper (except the draft for peer review). This eliminates the need to request extensions and allows you some flexibility in managing your workflow. After you use up your days of grace, graded assignments will be penalized by one-third of a letter grade for each day they are late, including weekends. All our assignments will be submitted online. There are no extra credit assignments in this class. Students must pass all components of the course to receive a passing grade in the class.

Grading system

In this course, all essays, exams, and short assignments will receive a numerical grade. Your final numerical grade will be converted using the following scale:

90 + %	A+	4.0
85 – 89 %	A	4.0
80 – 84 %	A–	3.7
77 – 79 %	B+	3.3
74 – 76 %	B	3.0
70 – 73 %	B–	2.7
67 – 69 %	C+	2.3
64 – 66 %	C	2.0
60 – 63 %	C–	1.7
55 – 59 %	D+	1.3
50 – 54 %	D	1.0
0 – 49 %	F	0

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the 4-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:
 - a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
 - b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
 - c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
 - d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/>

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test. For information on possible forms of documentation, including statutory declarations, please see <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/m-1.html>.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar; <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-2.html>

“The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, . . . , to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community”. The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a “positive and productive learning and working environment.” This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
