Course description:

Have you ever felt like there is some traditional, mainstream understanding of Canada and Canadian identity? If so, do you feel that this construction accurately describes your experience, or does your own lived experience seem far from normative definitions of Canada and Canadian identity? This course will provide instruction in critical reading and writing through the exploration of literary representations of Canada and Canadian identity in four novels written by Canadian writers whose stories, characters, and events are located, in a variety of ways (religion, race, class, sexuality, gender etc.), on the margins of what is called mainstream Canadian society. This critical engagement will allow us to explore different responses to some of the following questions: what is the value or the problematics of traditional notions of the nation and national identity? What is life like for those who do not possess the privilege of easy assimilation into valued notions of Canadian identity? How do these categories evolve over time and how do they reflect and respond to the contemporary dynamics of globalization? What are some of the potentialities and problematics around contemporary constructions of Canadian identity? What was, what is, and what will Canadian identity mean in the future? Our analytical engagement with these stories - reading, thinking, discussion, research and writing - will produce an exploration of these and other questions, challenges, issues and implications, generated through and connected to these representations of life on the Canadian margins.

Note: In this class there is no electronic recording of the instructor during class lectures, discussions, or office hour conversations without prior written permission of the instructor.

Texts and readings:

Dionne Brand
What We All Long For

Anita Rau Badami
Can You Hear the Nightbird Call?

Wayson Choy
All That Matters

Richard Wagamese
Keeper'N Me

Janet E. Gardener
Reading and Writing About Literature
Assignments and Evaluation:

20%  Participation Grade (5% attendance; 15% reading quizzes)

Attendance

- Will be taken for the 11 classes that follow the add/drop date
- Each available class is equally weighted and the total will be officially calculated after the final class. Example: 5% grade weight divided by 20 available classes would mean .25% of your final grade is awarded for each class attended
- Each student receives one free absence which will not count against your grade in this category. This is to cover the possibility of unforeseen circumstances that cause a student to miss a class (illness, missed buses/trains, other appointments, alarm malfunctions etc.).
- Example: If there are 21 available lectures to attend, I will calculate your total out of 20. If a student attends 15 out of 21 available classes, their grade calculation would be 15/20 = 75% (15x.25=3.75/5=.75 or 75%).
- Attendance marks are awarded for being present for the full class only. If students leave before the conclusion of the class without a prior consent and a valid reason, they will normally not receive attendance credit for that class.
- It will be the student’s responsibility to record their initials during or immediately after each class unless otherwise specified.

Reading Quizzes

- 5 short (10 minutes max.) reading quizzes.
- Quizzes consist of 6 multiple choice questions on the events of the story or section of the assigned reading according to the course schedule.
- Quizzes can occur at any time during the class.
- Dates on or after which quizzes are given are on your course schedule
- Each quiz is scored out of 5 with question 6 as a bonus. The final calculation is cumulative and out of 25 marks. Example: student quiz scores that read 3, 4, 5, 6, 0 = 18/25 = 72% for this grade category.
- Bonus marks here add up to one free quiz and are used to cover the possibility of unforeseen circumstances that might cause a student to be absent (illness, missed buses/trains, other appointments, alarm malfunctions, work commitments etc.) for a class in which a quiz appears and to allow students dealing with heavy workloads to not be excessively hindered by missing one reading assignment.

15% Exam #1 on assigned reading from Janet E. Gardener’s Reading and Writing About Literature

- Short answer (no essay questions) and/or multiple choice on technical terms, techniques, and concepts involved in critical reading and writing about literature.
- Exam date appears on your course schedule

15% Short Essay Assignment

- 3 typed, double-spaced pages (minimum 12pt. Times New Roman or Arial font; Approximately 750 words)
- Four paragraphs which includes an essay introduction, 2 body paragraphs, and a conclusion
- Assignment must include the use of a critical secondary source

25% Long Written Assignment (All options must include references to at least one critical secondary source)

Options:

1) Critical Essay option: minimum 5-6 typed, double-spaced pages (Times New Roman or Arial font; Approximately 1250-1500 words)

2) Short Story and Critical Explication option: minimum 4 (short story) + 2 (critical analysis) typed, double-spaced pages (Times New Roman or Arial font; Approximately 1500 words)

3) Group Presentation and Critical Explication: Max. 30 minute group presentation of critical engagement with one of the final two novels on the course list + minimum 5 typed, double-spaced pages that present your own critical response to your group's presentation.

25% Final Exam Open Book/ Online Monday, April 27 8:30-11:30 am Mountain (Calgary) time: Accessed through D2L

Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. Any other submissions are dated when I receive them (of you slide it under my office door on Friday but I do not get it until the following Tuesday, the latter becomes the submission date.
It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office. Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A- to B+) for each business day [not class] that the assignment is overdue. Please make every effort to take assignments directly to the instructor. If it is not possible to do so, take your assignment to SS 1152 and put it in the drop box. Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office.

Attendance

Attendance in this course is optional. However, students can use attendance to contribute toward their class participation grade. The rationale for this incentive grading component is to reinforce the understanding that each class, in a variety of ways, will develop skills and deliver information needed to learn and acquire the learning objectives for this course and to score effectively on assignments, and that in most cases there is a direct correlation between attendance and the student’s ability to produce a successful educational and grading experience in this course.

Participation

The participation grade in this course consists of reading quizzes. However, students should be aware that student participation in various ways (questions, comments, discussions, debates, arguments, presentations etc.) will be a key feature and an important tool to facilitate student success in this course. Students are encouraged, but not required, to speak in class and effective participation can be just as much the act of attentive, engaged listening and thoughtful consideration as insightful speaking. Since our readings will lead us into a wide range of critical investigations of social, cultural, historical, aesthetic and political issues, and since the class is a relatively large, diverse group of human beings with different ideas, opinions, arguments and positions on the issues and ideas the stories present, this course will proceed with a fundamental tone of respect, tolerance, and thoughtful consideration of the ideas of others (the instructor for students, students for the instructor, and students for each other). This guiding tone of respect does not mean that ideas, opinions, and arguments, expressed by students or instructor, cannot be challenged and debated from other positions and through different arguments. Indeed this can and should be an interesting and engaging aspect of our course. It means that when we disagree we try to persuade others through offering a more convincing argument. When students engage this sort of participation they further develop skills required to produce success on assignments and exams. This is one key reason for why, in most cases, there is a direct implicit correlation between participation and the student’s ability to produce a successful experience in this course. In addition, participation is one component used at the end of the course “when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.”

Policy on Electronic Devices

Over the last few years an increasing number of students report that they find device use for non-class purposes by their peers to be distracting and as an instructor, I find, through much experience, that the distraction is amplified and can negatively affect the class as a whole. While I understand that laptops have become a necessity for many students in many courses and accept that some students may have legitimate reasons that necessitate their use for notetaking or other course tasks, I request that in most cases students leave them in their bags and use the decidedly analog technology of pen and paper to take notes in this class. Students that require the use of electronic devices for specific physical reasons should notify me of the specifics of their situation immediately, and in these cases I respectfully request that their use be limited to course concerns while we are in class. I further request - as a courtesy to other students and your instructor - that phones be left on silent, and in your bags or pockets during class lectures and discussions. I too will adhere to the same policy and will extend the same courtesy and consideration to you by not having my phone out and active for other concerns while we are working in class together and in these ways we can all work together to reduce the ‘digital pollution’ and ‘electronic emissions’ in our classroom which will help create a healthier learning environment for all.

E-mail: I encourage students to use office hours for questions and course concerns. I check student emails as part of my office hour commitments during the week. This means that I read student email during office hours if no students are present or shortly after office hours during the week. Students should not expect that I have seen emails at any other time. My expectations are that students can email me to notify me of important or emergency situations (family emergencies, accidents, illnesses etc.). Questions and comments about course lectures and discussions are also acceptable, although in most cases I will respond to the question or comment at the beginning of the next class. Students should not assume that email is a substitute for missing class. If you miss class it is your responsibility to get the material from one of your peers and then to bring any further questions or discussions into office hours. Further all questions about writing or format or assignments, or the solicitation of my opinions or suggestions regarding your writing should be stated in class for the sake of efficiency and time management or in office hours.

Explicit Content Advisory:

The stories and discussions in this class, like most literature, will include material that deals explicitly with issues of sex, sexuality, race and violence and trauma that some may find offensive or disturbing. While at all times I will strive to be sensitive to these issues and respectful of different perspectives, students will certainly encounter such material in their own individual reading and possibly in class discussions as well.

Grading system:

In this course, your final grade will be marked on the University of Calgary’s four-point Undergraduate Grading System, as described in the Calendar: http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-2.html

A+/A (4.0); A- (3.7); B+ (3.3); B (3.0); B- (2.7); C+ (2.3); C (2.0); C- (1.7); D+ (1.3); D (1.0); F (0)

All quizzes and exams will receive a numerical grade to be converted using the following scale:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Numerical Grade</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>90 + %</td>
<td>A+ 4.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>85 – 89%</td>
<td>A 4.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>80 – 84%</td>
<td>A– 3.7</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
77 – 79 %  B+  3.3
74 – 76 %  B  3.0
70 – 73 %  B–  2.7
67 – 69 %  C+  2.3
64 – 66 %  C  2.0
60 – 63 %  C–  1.7
55 – 59 %  D+  1.3
50 – 54 %  D  1.0
0 – 49 %  F  0

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the 4-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. PLAGIARISM
Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:
1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:
   a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
   b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
   c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
   d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.
Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student’s work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test. For information on possible forms of documentation, including statutory declarations, please see https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/m-1.html.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar; https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-2.html

“The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, …, to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community”. The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a “positive and productive learning and working environment.” This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
