COURSE OUTLINE

ENGLISH 253.01 L03: *Studies in Genre: Short Fiction

WINTER 2022

Tuesdays & Thursdays 11:00-12:15, ES 443

Instructor:	Dr. Eden Lackner
Email:	eden.lackner@ucalgary.ca
Web Page:	D2L (access via MyUofC portal)
Office Hours:	In Office/In Person: Tuesdays & Thursdays, 9:30-10:30 (SS 1020) Online/Via Zoom: Tuesdays, 15:30-16:30 (Accessed via D2L)

Course Description: A study of the conventions of short fiction, with emphasis on close reading and critical writing skills. Includes the study of at least one text by an Indigenous author. This course emphasizes fundamental skills: how to read a text accurately and critically; how to write logically, clearly, and persuasively. Within this course, students will read a selection of short fiction that highlight the ways in which we tell stories about ourselves and others. Students will also be introduced to the application of critical theory to both the texts covered in class, and the wider literary world.

Prerequisite(s): Not open to students with credit in English 253.02 or 351.

Course Learning Outcomes:

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Read texts accurately and critically;
2. Write logically, clearly, and persuasively;
3. Apply critical theory to literature;
4. Appropriately evaluate and use secondary sources in persuasive and argumentative writing;
5. Situate their own scholarly analysis within larger academic discourse, both in relation to other students' ideas, and the wider academic world;
6. Articulate the conventions of short fiction, and identify the genre's varying forms;
7. Articulate the importance of stories and storytelling to our conceptions of ourselves and the world around us.

Texts and Readings:

Available in University Bookstore:

- The Norton Anthology of Short Fiction: Eighth Edition by Richard Bausch

- The Broadview Pocket Guide to Writing: Revised Fourth Canadian Edition by Doug Babington, Don LePan, and Maureen Okun

Available Online, via D2L Course Forum:

- "A Short History of Indians in Canada" by Thomas King (from Canadian Literature: A Quarterly of Criticism and Review)
- Additional critical sources

Learning Technology Requirements:

While this course is taught in person, students will need to have access to a computer or smartphone outside of class time. There is a D2L site for this course which contains required readings and other relevant class resources and materials (see d2L.ucalgary.ca). Additionally, many of our assignments will require online submission.

Assessments and Evaluation:

Close Reading (25%):

Understanding the detailed forms, figures and themes of a work is as important to understanding that work as considering its larger cultural context. This short essay of 750 words will focus on a close reading of one or more texts by an author covered in the course. Students will engage with their chosen texts by examining their content and forms. Each essay will be accompanied by an MLA formatted bibliography listing the texts consulted.

Group Presentation (15%):

Researching the literary roots of a work can help us to better understand its social and cultural context. For this project, each group will choose one text from the course readings and discuss it in terms of how it explores one of the course's themes, and how that exploration fits with related criticism. The group will consider both the content and the form of these texts, and will also be required to integrate one appropriate critical secondary source into their analysis. Students may optionally use visual materials, such as PowerPoint, but they must support and highlight the group's central argument. The presentation must be 8 to 10 minutes in length (no longer). There will likely be 4 to 5 students per group. Students in each group will be assigned a common grade. However, to ensure that the presentation grade reflects the equal efforts of all members, the instructor will consult with each group periodically.

Mid-Term Exam (15%):

Understanding what critical concepts mean and how to apply them to texts is invaluable in persuasively presenting ideas. The mid-term exam will provide students with a chance to consider the texts and concepts already covered in the course as well as work on close reading, analytical argumentation, time- and stress-management skills.

Close Reading Research Paper (25%):

Considering our own interpretations in the context of larger academic and critical conversations is an important step in formulating strong arguments. For this essay, students will pursue their chosen lines of inquiry with reference to texts and authors covered in the course and related academic criticism. This essay of 1250 words will incorporate 2-3 secondary scholarly sources which will support and help build the student's own argument. Each essay will be accompanied by an MLA formatted bibliography listing both the primary and secondary texts consulted.

Final Exam (20%):

The final exam marks the culmination of all our work in English 253.01. The course will have a registrar-scheduled examination during the regular exam period. The registrar schedules all examinations; the instructor has no control over when ours will be held.

TOTAL: 100%

Additional Regulations:

- Students are expected to attend class regularly and to be fully present and engaged in class activities and discussions.
- Unless otherwise indicated, all essay assignments are due by 23:59 on their corresponding due dates. All group presentations and accompanying documentation are due at the beginning of class on their corresponding due dates, and all exams are due at the end of the period assigned to that exam (in class or Registrar-scheduled). Please make every effort to hand in assignments as directed, which will primarily be online through our Desire2Learn course website. Your written assignments must have both your name and Dr. Lackner's on the first page, and must be typed, double-spaced and submitted online/as instructed. Submit your files in .doc, docx, or .pdf form only.
- Late assignments will lose a fraction of a grade per day (not per class) unless an extension has been granted. (Ex: An assignment submitted two days late that would have earned a B will instead receive a C+.) Late assignments can be submitted via D2L, in the same manner as assignments submitted on time. No assignments will be accepted one week past the assignment deadline without the prior consent of the instructor.
- While you are not required to complete all assignments in order to pass the course, you are strongly encouraged to do so; even one missed assignment will significantly impact a student's final grade.
- Students are responsible for keeping copies of all assignments in case of loss of any kind. Only the instructor is able to return assignments to students.
- There will be no extra credit assignments or opportunities to redo and resubmit your work. Do the best work you can on each assignment before you submit it.

- This course includes a Registrar-scheduled exam, which will be open book. Students are required by the University of Calgary to be available for examinations up to and including the last day of the examination period (April 19-29, 2021).
- In order to facilitate smooth email communications, when emailing your instructor, please begin your subject with "ENGL 253.01 L03" and then include the reason for your email. For example: "ENGL 253.01 L03: Citation Question." By including your course number, you are helping your instructor to sort through and answer class-related emails far more efficiently.

Attendance and Participation Expectations:

Preparation for Class: Always bring the text(s) listed on the weekly reading schedule to class with you unless otherwise instructed by the professor. Consult the schedule well before every class and listen carefully to additional instructions given at the end of each lecture so that you know which materials we will be using during the next class.

It is critically important that you have the texts we are scheduled to discuss with you, as close and detailed readings of each work under discussion are the cornerstones of studying literature. Similarly, you are expected to have read and engaged with each text before the corresponding lecture on that work. As with all courses, preparation is the key to understanding. Relying on getting a general sense of a book or lecture from class discussion without putting in the time to read and consider the material we are covering will not serve you well in this course or any other.

Class Participation: Regularly attending classes, arriving prepared, participating respectfully in discussions and making an effort to intellectually engage with the material, instructor and your fellow students will enhance your learning process and contribute to a positive classroom environment. Students are expected to be active participants in the formulation of knowledge in this course, rather than passive consumers. These steps will also help develop your ability to articulate your ideas and shape your arguments, which will serve you well across the various facets of your life.

Take notes. Do not rely on merely attending the lecture or saving copies of course materials and nothing more. Memory is faulty, and attempting to recall the details of a class discussion held weeks ago without notes to refer to is a losing proposition.

Conduct: Students, employees, and academic staff are also expected to demonstrate behaviour in class that promotes and maintains a positive and productive learning environment. As members of the University community, students, employees, and academic staff are expected to demonstrate conduct that is consistent with the University of Calgary Calendar, the Code of Conduct and Non-Academic Misconduct policy and procedures, which can be found at: <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html>

Policy on Use of Electronic Devices:

Students are expected to restrict the use of electronic and mobile devices to course-related functions during lectures. Please refrain from accessing websites and resources that may be distracting to you or other learners during class time. Students are responsible for being aware of the University’s Internet and email use policy. Electronic devices are not permitted during the midterm or final examination unless part of a student's Access requirements.

The instructor reserves the right to eject anyone causing any kind of disruption from the classroom.

Grading System: Course grades are based on the University of Calgary four-point Undergraduate Grading System and the standard percentage conversion chart of the Department of English:

90 + %	A+	4.0	67 – 69 %	C+	2.3
85 – 89 %	A	4.0	64 – 66 %	C	2.0
80 – 84 %	A–	3.7	60 – 63 %	C–	1.7
77 – 79 %	B+	3.3	55 – 59 %	D+	1.3
74 – 76 %	B	3.0	50 – 54 %	D	1.0
70 – 73 %	B–	2.7	0 – 49 %	F	0

“Students must reach the minimum percentage threshold for the grade range to receive that letter grade (e.g., to receive an A- a student will have surpassed the minimum threshold of 80.00% in the course).”

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality. There is no D- grade.

The interpretation of the undergraduate university grading system can be found at: <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-1-1.html>

Academic Integrity:

This course, like all courses at the University of Calgary, holds students to high standards of honest and responsible scholarship. Please consult the Academic Integrity website for a detailed description of university policies, which will be enforced in this course. Cases of suspected academic misconduct will be referred to the Associate Dean of Arts for a ruling.

Plagiarism is a type of academic misconduct. Plagiarism occurs when a student presents the ideas, expression of ideas, or work of another person as their own. Another equally serious form of plagiarism occurs when a student submits something they have written themselves for credit in two or more courses without first securing written permission from all those course instructors. Consequences for plagiarism include failure on the assignment, failure in the course, and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense.

Deferral of Term Work and Final Examinations:

Should you require an extension for completion of term papers or assignments beyond the deadline of five days after the end of lectures, an Application of Deferment of Term Work must be completed. It is the student's responsibility to initiate this process with the instructor. The University also has regulations governing the deferral of final examinations.

Grade Appeals:

To pursue a Reassessment of Graded Term Work or a Reappraisal of an Academic Assessment, Consult the University Calendar and request advice from the English Department at engl@ucalgary.ca. Please note that mere dissatisfaction with a grade is not sufficient grounds for an appeal.

Instructor's Intellectual Property:

Course materials created by instructors, including presentations, posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments, and exams, remain the intellectual property of the instructor. These materials may not be reproduced, redistributed or copied without the explicit consent of the instructor. The posting of course materials to third party websites such as note-sharing sites without permission is prohibited. Sharing of extracts of these course materials with other students enrolled in the course at the same time may be allowed under fair dealing.

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy:

Student information will be collected in accordance with usual classroom practice. Students' assignments will be accessible only by the authorized course faculty and teaching assistants. Private information related to the individual student is treated with the utmost regard by the faculty at the University of Calgary.
