Course description:

An examination of the claims and assumptions of a range of contemporary critical practices, such as formalism, structuralism, deconstruction, feminism and gender studies, new historicism, psychoanalytic criticism, and cultural and ideological critique. Includes sustained engagement with original theoretical texts. Prerequisite: Two half-course equivalents of English.

Texts and readings:

Required:

Rivkin, Julie and Michael Ryan. Literary Theory: An Anthology. 3rd Ed. Oxford: Blackwell, 2017.

Shelley, Mary. Frankenstein. (1818 version required, Broadview Print Edition recommended)

Felluga, Dino Franco. Critical Theory: The Key Concepts. Routledge, 2015.

Selected short stories, poems, essays (in public domain) available online for in-class exercises

Recommended:

Culler, Jonathan. Literary Theory: A Very Short Introduction. Oxford UP, 2011.

Assignments and Evaluation:

Short Essay (5-7 pages) 15% (Fall term)

In-Class Midterm 20% (December 4)

Essay (7-10 pages) 15% (Winter term)

Final 30% (cumulative, Winter Term exam period)

Participation (Fall and Winter terms) 20%

Essay Assignments: There are 2 essay assignments in this course, the first (Short Essay, 15%) in the Fall term and the second (Essay, 15%) in the Winter term. The instructor will post detailed instructions (including due date) on D2L at least 2 weeks before the due date. The assignment requirements will also be discussed in class, and students are welcome to discuss their essays with the instructor during office hours.

In-Class Midterm: This in-class test is worth 20% and will take place during the last class of the Fall term. It will test students' understanding of all course materials, including assigned readings, lectures, and class discussions.

Participation: Given that ENGL 302 is a cumulative course, participation components are designed to encourage students to keep up with readings and to test their understandings of course material regularly across both terms. Participation will be graded through 2 low-stakes course components each worth 5% per term: reading quizzes and discussion questions (details below). Note that while each component is low-stakes, cumulatively over both terms, participation counts for a substantial part (20%) of students' final grades. Moreover, active participation will likely enhance students' performance in other course components (such as essays and exams) as well. Students are advised to take their participation seriously.

Brief low-stakes reading quizzes will test students' understanding of assigned reading. There will be a total of 5 quizzes/term; each quiz will have no more than 5 short-answer questions and be worth 1% of students' final grade for the course. Quizzes can occur on any day without advance notice and when they do take place they will start at the beginning of class time. Students who arrive late or are absent on a quiz day will receive 0 for that quiz. There will be no make-up quizzes.

To ensure that students are actively testing their understanding of course materials, students will prepare 1 typed discussion question for each of 6 scheduled recap/discussion sessions in each term. This is an opportunity for students to flag any difficulty they may be having with course materials and for the class to revisit any readings or key concepts that remain unclear before we move on to the next section of the course. Discussion questions will be graded on a pass/fail basis according to the following schema:

| Number of Discussion Questions Successfully Completed and Submitted On-Time | Grade (out of a total of 5 per term) |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| 5-6 | 5/5 |
| 4 | 4/5 |
| 3 | 3/5 |
| 2 or fewer | 0/5 |

“Successful completion” means that the discussion question is detailed and thoughtful, making specific reference to at least one particular reading or key concept. To receive credit, each discussion question must be submitted at the start of the designated discussion class in typed, hard copy. See the Lecture and Reading Schedule (D2L) for dates of scheduled discussion sessions. Late or electronic submissions will not be accepted.

Students who experience extenuating circumstances that may adversely affect their performance in one or more components of this course are encouraged to discuss this with the instructor as soon as possible so that adequate accommodations can be made if/as necessary.

Note that this course includes a closed-book Registrar-scheduled exam in the Winter Term. Students must be available for examinations up to the last day of the examination period (April 18-29, 2020).

Class Policies:

- Students must complete all assignments and exams (midterm and final) in order to qualify for a passing grade in this course. There will be no extra-credit assignments.
- Students are expected to come to lectures having read required readings in advance (as specified in the schedule of readings) and to be prepared to participate actively in class discussion.
- Students are required to bring texts to class (in hard or electronic copy) for reference during class.
- Students are welcome to use portable word processing devices (tablets, laptops) in class. However, students who mis-use these devices (surfing inappropriate or offensive material, using social networking sites, emailing, texting, playing music, etc.) may be asked to leave class and/or may be prohibited further use of such devices in class. Students are not permitted to use cell-phones during class time.

- Recording of lectures is prohibited unless prior permission is granted by the instructor.
- All assignments must be submitted in hard copy at the beginning of class on the day that they are due. All assignments (including discussion questions) must be typed; handwritten assignments will not be accepted.
- No extensions will be granted for course work except in cases of illness or personal distress. Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of 5% for each day [including weekends] that the assignment is overdue. No assignments will be accepted one week past the assignment deadline without the prior consent of the instructor.
- Assignments must adhere to MLA style guidelines (most recent edition). It is the student's responsibility to learn these guidelines if they do not already know them, as this will not be covered in class. Please refer to MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, and/or the online outline of MLA format at <http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/>

Please make every effort to take assignments directly to the instructor. If it is not possible to do so, take your assignment to SS 1152 and put it in the dropbox. Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. It is your responsibility to ensure that the instructor receives your assignment and to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office.

Grading system:

Letter grades and their associated percentage points will be used in this course:

| | | | | | |
|-----------|----|-----|-----------|----|-----|
| 90 + % | A+ | 4.0 | 67 – 69 % | C+ | 2.3 |
| 85 – 89 % | A | 4.0 | 64 – 66 % | C | 2.0 |
| 80 – 84 % | A– | 3.7 | 60 – 63 % | C– | 1.7 |
| 77 – 79 % | B+ | 3.3 | 55 – 59 % | D+ | 1.3 |
| 74 – 76 % | B | 3.0 | 50 – 54 % | D | 1.0 |
| 70 – 73 % | B– | 2.7 | 0 – 49 % | F | 0 |

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades. In this course, in-between grades with decimal point 0.5 or higher will be rounded up, while those with 0.4 or lower will be rounded down.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:
 - a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
 - b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
 - c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
 - d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/>

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test. For information on possible forms of documentation, including statutory declarations, please see <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/m-1.html>.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar; <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-2.html>

“The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, ..., to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community”. The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a “positive and productive learning and working environment.” This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
