COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course provides a rough survey of writing in what became Canada from the late 18th century to the present, with an emphasis on writing since the Second World War. The course attempts to cover representative Canadian writing in English from various time periods, regions, and genres (short story, poetry, sketch, essay). The course includes instruction in the writing of research papers, and will also involve archival work in online collections, both print and audio.

This course will take place online via Desire2Learn (D2L) and Zoom. To best succeed in the course, students are encouraged to participate in the asynchronous learning tasks using the D2L learning environment. Weekly lectures by the instructor (and occasionally the teaching assistant) will be posted to D2L, and take the form of video, audio slideshows, and other presentation formats. Students will also create group podcasts on various topics throughout the term which will be shared with the class.

There will be 7 synchronous Zoom sessions throughout the term (indicated in the course schedule), and each will be recorded. With the exception of the first synchronous Zoom session, which will take place on Tuesday January 12 from 3:30-4:45 pm, all synchronous sessions will take place on Thursdays from 3:30-4:45 pm (Mountain time).

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this course, students will have demonstrated an ability to:

- chart the historical development of Canadian literature and align those literary developments with changing technological, social, political, and other contexts
- discuss the relationship of writing in Canada, and of its study, to an ongoing colonial project
- situate the works of significant Canadian writers, working in English and in a variety of genres, to global literary movements and developments
- generate knowledge collaboratively through discussion with their peers
• conduct research and engage with existing critical arguments about Canadian literature in the writing of a research paper

• conduct primary research with both print and audio archives in order to understand the material and performative contexts in which literature is produced

TEXTS AND READINGS

Bennett and Brown, eds. An Anthology of Canadian Literature in English, Oxford UP, 4th edition

Please note: This is the only text you are required to buy for this course, and we will make good use of it. The 4th edition is strongly recommended, as some online test questions will ask students to consult specific texts and passages by page / line number. The 4th edition also includes an online student resource which will be used to support the writing of critical essays.

Other readings will be made available through D2L, including readings determined by students through their archive / close listening projects (see below).

ASSIGNMENTS AND EVALUATION

Archive project or close listening project: Students will sign up to complete either a project working with digitized archival materials available online, or a close listening project working with digital literary audio available online. This will involve both sharing materials with the class in D2L and writing and submitting an essay.

Midterm and final tests: There will be a midterm test and a final test, both multiple choice, both conducted online, covering readings, recorded lectures, discussions on discussion boards, podcasts created by students, and other courses resources. Each test will have 25 questions and students will have 75 minutes to complete each test within a 24-hour period on the day of the test.

Group podcast: Working in groups of six-seven students, and drawing from existing audio online such as interviews, readings, profiles, and other material, as well as recorded contributions from each student in the group, students will sign up for and create one podcast relating to a particular topic. These will be aired weekly from the third week of the semester to the 12th.

Final research paper: This will be a 7-8 page research paper on the work of one of the writers we are studying this term, making use of at least two secondary sources.

Discussion board: There will be several ways in which students will engage with the discussion board over the course of the semester.

General reading prompts. At the end of every week, the instructor will post prompts regarding the next week’s readings. Students have until 8 pm on the Wednesday of the week in which the readings will be discussed to post either a thoughtful, well-supported response to the prompts; a thoughtful, well-supported response to another student’s comment; or a question / prompt of their own about the week’s readings. Each post will be worth 1 mark (no more than one mark may be given for a particular week’s posts, even if students engage in some back and forth with each other, which is encouraged). Students may continue to post in response to the prompts or to each other after the Monday deadline has passed, including after we have discussed the texts in class, but those posts will only be worth half a mark, and only up until the following week’s discussions. The first week (January 11-17) will be an exception, in which students may post responses for full marks the entire week.

Podcast discussions. As groups share their podcasts with the class, they will also post prompts / questions relating to their podcast to generate further discussion. Students may also respond to these prompts to generate discussion board marks, to a maximum of 1 point per podcast discussion.

Test bank questions. There will be a separate discussion forum for a multiple choice test bank. Both of our tests this term will be open book, multiple choice tests on course readings and material covered in Zoom meeting, podcasts, discussion boards, and other course resources. Students are encouraged to create their own questions to contribute to the test bank; further details about question format will be provided in class, but the questions should be fair yet challenging enough given the open-book context. The instructor may or may not use the questions in the tests this term, and he may also slightly modify them when he does use... them. Students have an obvious interest in crafting their own questions for the test bank, but they may also earn up to 2 marks towards their discussion board mark, at 1 mark per question to a maximum of two questions.

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION EXPECTATIONS

This course was scheduled as an asynchronous online course, which most of you signed up for before the pandemic was upon us. Consequently, there will be no expectations of participation in the biweekly synchronous sessions. However, I believe that these sessions will help contribute to a sense of community and continuity in the course (and give us a chance for some social interaction from our isolation). There will be opportunities in these sessions to discuss course business, solicit and offer feedback on how the course is proceeding, ask for clarifications on assignments, continue discussions about the readings that have been generated in D2L, and begin new avenues of inquiry into the readings. Recognizing that, because the course was not scheduled at a particular day and time, many students may not be able to attend all of these sessions, they will be recorded and made available to whomever would like to watch them, and test questions will be drawn exclusively from material made available asynchronously.

Additional Regulations:

- There is no registrar-scheduled exam in this course.
- There are no extra-credit assignments
- The research paper and archive / close listening projects will be submitted through dropbox on D2L. All papers must be submitted in Word, not pdf, format. Tests and discussion board posts will be done through D2L. The podcasts will be completed by students and then uploaded to D2L.
- Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A-to B+) for each business day [not class] that the assignment is overdue. No assignments will be accepted one week past the assignment deadline without the prior consent of the instructor.
- You do not have to complete all assignments in order to receive a passing grade.
CONDUCT

Students, employees, and academic staff are also expected to demonstrate behaviour in class that promotes and maintains a positive and productive learning environment. As members of the University community, students, employees, and academic staff are expected to demonstrate conduct that is consistent with the University of Calgary Calendar, the Code of Conduct and Non-Academic Misconduct policy and procedures, which can be found at: http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html

GUIDELINES FOR ZOOM SESSIONS

Zoom is a video conferencing program that will allow us to meet at specific times for a “live” video conference, so that we can have the opportunity to meet each other virtually and discuss relevant course topics as a learning community.

To help ensure Zoom sessions are private, do not share the Zoom link or password with others, or on any social media platforms. Zoom links and passwords are only intended for students registered in the course. Zoom recordings and materials presented in Zoom, including any teaching materials, must not be shared, distributed or published without the instructor’s permission.

The use of video conferencing programs relies on participants to act ethically, honestly and with integrity; and in accordance with the principles of fairness, good faith, and respect (as per the Code of Conduct). When entering Zoom or other video conferencing sessions (such as MS Teams), you play a role in helping create an effective, safe and respectful learning environment. Please be mindful of how your behaviour in these sessions may affect others. Participants are required to use names officially associated with their UCID (legal or preferred names listed in the Student Centre) when engaging in these activities. Instructors/moderators can remove those whose names do not appear on class rosters. Non-compliance may be investigated under relevant University of Calgary conduct policies (e.g Student Non-Academic Misconduct Policy). If participants have difficulties complying with this requirement, they should email the instructor of the class explaining why, so the instructor may consider whether to grant an exception, and on what terms. For more information on how to get the most out of your zoom sessions visit: https://elearn.ucalgary.ca/guidelines-for-zoom/.

The instructor will record online Zoom class sessions for the purposes of supporting student learning in this class – such as making the recording available for review of the session or for students who miss a session. Students will be advised before the instructor initiates a recording of a Zoom session. These recordings will be used to support student learning only and will not be shared or used for any other purpose.

- Final grades are determined by a combination of numerical and letter grades. Please note that the department has now standardized the percentage conversion scale, and all letter grades fall within the following ranges:

The interpretation of the undergraduate university grading system can be found at https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-1-1.html

For graduate courses, please refer to the Graduate Grading System at the following link: http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/grad/current/gs-h-1.html

A+/A (4.0); A- (3.7); B+ (3.3); B (3.0); B- (2.7); C+ (2.3); C (2.0); C- (1.7); D+ (1.3); D (1.0); F (0)

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1) https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-1.html, instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Plagiarism:
Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university.

“Plagiarism” occurs when a Student presents the ideas, expression of ideas or work of another individual as the Student’s own. Work may include algorithms, code, composition, data, methods, design, formulae, images, indigenous oral teachings, art and ceremonies, organization of ideas, and scientific and mathematical concepts.

*INSTRUCTOR'S INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY
Course materials created by instructors (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the instructor. These materials may NOT be reproduced, redistributed or copied without the explicit consent of the instructor. The posting of course materials to third party websites such as note-sharing sites without permission is prohibited. Sharing of extracts of these course materials with other students enrolled in the course at the same time may be allowed under fair dealing.

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION AND PROTECTION OF PRIVACY
Student information will be collected in accordance with typical (or usual) classroom practice. Students’ assignments will be accessible only by the authorized course faculty. Private information related to the individual student is treated with the utmost regard by the faculty at the University of Calgary.

COPYRIGHT LEGISLATION
All students are required to read the University of Calgary policy on Acceptable Use of Material Protected by Copyright (https://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/acceptable-use-of-material-protected-by-copyright-policy.pdf) and requirements of the copyright act (https://laws-lois.justice.gc.ca/eng/acts/C-42/index.html) to ensure they are aware of the consequences of unauthorised sharing of course materials (including instructor notes, electronic versions of textbooks etc.). MEDIA RECORDING (if applicable)
Please refer to the following statement on media recording of students: https://elearn.ucalgary.ca/wp-content/uploads/2020/05/Media-Recording-in-Learning-Environments-OSP_FINAL.pdf

Media recording for lesson capture
The instructor may use media recordings to capture the delivery of a lecture. These recordings are intended to be used for lecture capture only and will not be used for any other purpose. Although the recording device will be fixed on the Instructor, in the event that incidental student participation is recorded, the instructor will ensure that any identifiable content (video or audio) is masked, or will seek consent to include the identifiable student content to making the content available on University approved platforms.

Media recording for self-assessment of teaching practices
The instructor may use media recordings as a tool for self-assessment of their teaching practices. Although the recording device will be fixed on the instructor, it is possible that student participation in the course may be inadvertently captured. These recordings will be used for instructor self-assessment only and will not be used for any other purpose.

Media recording for the assessment of student learning
The instructor may use media recordings as part of the assessment of students. This may include but is not limited to classroom discussions, presentations, clinical practice, or skills testing that occur during the course. These recordings will be used for student assessment purposes only and will not be shared or used for any other purpose.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE POLICY
The University recognizes that all members of the University Community should be able to learn, work, teach and live in an environment where they are free from harassment, discrimination, and violence. The University of Calgary’s sexual violence policy guides us in how we respond to incidents of sexual violence, including supports available to those who have experienced or witnessed sexual violence, or those who are alleged to have committed sexual violence. It provides clear response procedures and timelines, defines complex concepts, and addresses incidents that occur off-campus in certain circumstances. Please see the policy available at https://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/sexual-violence-policy.pdf

OTHER IMPORTANT INFORMATION
Please visit the Registrar’s website at: https://www.ucalgary.ca/registrar/registration/course-outlines for additional important information on the following:
Universal Student Ratings of Instruction (USRI):
"At the University of Calgary, feedback provided by students through the Universal Student Ratings of Instruction (USRI) survey provides valuable information to help with evaluating instruction, enhancing learning and teaching, and selecting courses (www.ucalgary.ca/usri). Your responses make a difference – please participate in USRI Surveys."

PLAGIARISM
Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:
1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:
   a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
   b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
   c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
   d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student’s work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites: http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test. For information on possible forms of documentation, including statutory declarations, please see https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/m-1.html.
DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar

“The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, …, to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community”. The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a “positive and productive learning and working environment.” This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
