Fall 2014

COURSE TITLE: Comics and Graphic Novels

Instructor: Bart Beaty

Office: SS 1138

Phone: 220-7246

E-mail: beaty@ucalgary.ca

Office hours: Monday 14:00 – 16:00

Course description:

This course will examine the increasing importance of comics and graphic novels in contemporary literary culture. Tracing the rise of the comics form from the era of the printed broadsheet, this course will address the important turn towards visuality in twentieth-century mass publishing from the daily newspaper and weekly magazines to the rise of the illustrated children's book. The importance of the American comic book format of the 1930s will be introduced, and the history of this form will be examined with an eye towards the development of new serial story-telling styles, the development of new reading strategies within organized fandom, and the role of corporate editorial oversight on the creative process. The rise of the graphic novel tradition in comics, particularly since the publication of Art Spiegelman's Maus (1986, 1992), will be examined in detail.

Texts and readings:

Spiegelman, Art. Maus
Crumb, Robert. The Complete Crumb v8: The Death of Fritz the Cat
Lee, Stan and Jack Kirby. The Essential Fantastic Four v3
Moore, Alan and Dave Gibbons. Watchmen
Lucey, Harry. The Best of Harry Lucey v1
Vaughn James, Martin. The Cage
Yang, Gene Leun. American Born Chinese
Otomo, Katsuhiro. Akira v1
Sim, Dave. Cerebus: High Society
Horrocks, Dylan. Hicksville

Other readings to be distributed in class.

Assignments and Evaluation:

In-class Presentation (25%). Each week an individual student will be charged with leading the class discussion at the beginning of class. Presentations should provide a brief overview of the narratological device that is the subject for the week's class in relation to the primary text assigned for that week. Students in the MA program should prepare presentations that will occupy 20 to 25 minutes of the class time (including discussion) while students in the PhD program should prepare 45 minute presentations. These presentations should not provide a simple summation of the readings, but should move well beyond them to the larger issues raised. Presentations will be assigned during the first class.

Presentation Responses (10%). Each week students will be responsible for providing written feedback on the presentations of their fellow students. This feedback will be constructive criticism of the form and content of the presentation. This feedback will be anonymized and synthesized by the instructor, and will be relayed to the presenter. Written comments (about one substantial paragraph) are due to the instructor by noon on the Wednesday immediately following the presentation.

Essay Abstract (10%). A short abstract (approximately 250 to 400 words) will serve as a proposal for your final paper. This abstract should indicate the primary text(s) to be examined, the theoretical or methodological lens through which the work(s) will be addressed, and an indication of the relevance of the work. Due: October 6, 2014.

Annotated Bibliography (15%). Students will prepare a bibliography with annotations pertaining to the relevance of the selected items with regard to their final paper (approximately 200 words per item). Students in the MA program should provide 10 annotated items. Students in the PhD program should provide twenty annotated items. Due: November 3, 2014.

Final Essay (40%). Students will write a term paper on a work of their choice. This paper should build upon one or more of the narratological concepts introduced during the term. Papers should be approximately 20 pages in length. Due December 15, 2014.

There is no Registrar-scheduled exam in this course.

Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A- to B+) for each business day [not class] that the assignment is overdue.

Please make every effort to take assignments directly to the instructor. If it is not possible to do so, take your assignment to SS 1152 and put it in the dropbox. Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office.

Grading system:

Grades are calculated according to the 4 point scale used in the Graduate Calendar:

<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/grad/current/gs-e-1.html>

Grade	Grade Point Value	Graduate Description
A+	4.00	Outstanding
A	4.00	Excellent-superior performance showing comprehensive understanding of the subject matter
A-	3.70	Very good performance
B+	3.30	Good performance
B	3.00	Satisfactory performance
B-	2.70	Minimum pass for students in Faculty of Graduate Studies
C+	2.30	All grades below B- are indicative of failure at the graduate level and cannot be counted towards Faculty of Graduate Studies course requirements.

C	2.00
C-	1.70
D+	1.30
D	1.00
F	0.00

Please note: A B- is considered a minimum pass for students in the Faculty of Graduate Studies.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Plagiarism:

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. Please refer to the following information and make sure you are familiar with the statement below on plagiarism.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:

- (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
- (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
- (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
- (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar, (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/j.html>) "The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, ..., to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community". The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a "positive and productive learning and working environment." This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that "seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff". Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
